Glatting Jackson planner elected as officer of state association

(Orlando, Fla.) – Nancy Roberts, a planning manager at Glatting Jackson Kercher Anglin, Inc., has been elected the Vice President of Financial Affairs for the Florida Planning and Zoning Association.

The FPZA is a statewide organization that promotes cooperation amongst planning and zoning boards, commissions, citizens and other stakeholders involved in the municipal planning process. The association also promotes responsible development and use of land and natural resources.

Roberts has been an active member of the FPZA since 2000. As a professional planner, she has helped numerous cities and counties develop comprehensive plans, land-use strategies, environmental policies and economic-development plans that make their communities more livable and vibrant. Her clients have included Osceola, Pasco, Manatee, Seminole, Polk and Charlotte counties, as well as the cities of Tampa, Port Orange, Bradenton and Haines City.

Roberts became a planner at Glatting Jackson in 2003. Prior to that, her professional experience included serving as a senior-level planner for the City of Tallahassee, Leon and Seminole counties and Renaissance Planning Group in Orlando.

Roberts served as the FPZA's Central Florida Chapter president from 2003 to 2004. She has served on the local chapter board since 2000 and on the state executive board since 2002.

Roberts' term as Vice President of Financial Affairs for the FPZA will run through spring of 2009.
